

Sales Executive

- for global software scaleup company

At GateHouse Maritime, we are looking for candidates to an exciting position for a forward-bound business with ambitious growth plans.

GateHouse Maritime foresees a great potential for growth. By providing impactful, real-time, and critical data for our clients to help them make better decisions (driven by data), businesses world-wide can avoid disasters, manage vessels better, boost productivity, reduce man-hours wasted on tedious tasks, and improve their business operations leading to better profitability.

All this is possible by using our skills and experience to build Data-as-a-Service (DaaS) solutions, backed by our proprietary data foundation at GateHouse Maritime.

Since GateHouse Maritime was founded, we have been experts in capturing and making maritime data available to clients. We have already gathered 354 billion maritime data points, and 150 million new data points are added every day. We have a unique data foundation which will ensure multiple revenue streams going forward.

Our clients are already using our historical, real time and predictive data to increase their insight and visibility, leading to some incredible results (not to mention some long-standing business relationships).

Your responsibilities

Your main responsibility is to secure and develop the commercial success of all products and services by increasing revenue and customer satisfaction. Based on our sales strategy you will be working to develop and optimize customer relationships and increase our footprint in a global market.

You will be part of a sales team backed up by a well-established outreach team. You will be responsible for execution of the whole sales process – and take ownership for following up on inbound/outbound sales performance – and have a proactive outreach and interaction to global B2B customers to identify business opportunities – and to win new business opportunities in order to reach your sales quota.

As we are a scaleup company you will have great impact on our direction and success – and if you are looking for challenges that can help shape not only your own career, but an entire industry vertical as well, we can't wait to see what we can do together.

Your background:

You have 5+ years experience in global B2B roles with a proven track record. It is an advantage to have some enterprise software sales experience.

The ideal candidate has knowledge of the supply-chain and logistics space and has worked with a SaaS/DaaS platform product before.

Furthermore, you have experience in trying to develop and execute marketing campaigns in order to drive pipeline and revenue generation. We are expecting a structured way-of-working and some experience in using CRM system for handling potential customers in the lead generation phase. For handling the process from proposal and onwards, we use Microsoft Dynamics.

We are looking for candidates who are proactive and outgoing and know how to relate and communicate with customers at C-level. You will bring energy and passion into your daily work, along with a deep desire to succeed. You are motivated by creating both revenue and customer satisfaction.

As we are a company with global customers - you must be fluent in English (writing/verbally)

You will be based in our Nørresundby headquarters.

Application

Should you have questions about the position, please do not hesitate to call CSO Marianne Berg Eisenhardt at +45 4082 1227.

We look forward to receiving your application and CV here
